

Landmarks OF NANTUCKET!

Allison Levy

I am a student in the eighth grade at Cyrus Peirce Middle School. I enjoy golf, tennis, and sailing and look forward to joining the Boys Varsity Golf Team at Nantucket High School next year. By participating in the Landmark Project, I have learned the importance of preserving history through photography. Viewing images of Nantucket today, in the future will reveal a window into the island's past.

NANTUCKET HARBOR

Nantucket's harbor is the first thing anybody sees when coming to Nantucket. The clear blue sky against the dark blue water shows a beautiful contrast to one another. Nantucket's vast harbor with its many boats shows both the beauty of Nantucket's natural exquisiteness of nature and the surrounding towns. From this angle you get a glance of the harbor's more natural features, bordered by the red ferns at the edge of the bank. Nantucket's harbor can enter the hearts of anyone at first glance.

DOWNTOWN MAIN STREET

Nobody can resist a beautiful sunny day downtown. Looking down the bending and winding street, surrounding trees and houses cast striking shadows that add a delicate grace and beauty. The houses that line the streets are full of history and each emphasizes the small-town charm that is Nantucket's town.

MITCHELL'S BOOK CORNER

Mitchell's Book Corner is a quiet little bookshop located right on Main Street. This small-town shop has been around for many years, and still has the small downtown one-of-a-kind charm. This store holds hundreds of books, from old to new. This is a wonderful little getaway for any book lover. Mitchell's not only has a great selection of best sellers, this store is also fully stocked with the greatest collection of Nantucket books. If this store were to disappear, our island would lose a great bookshop with the kindest and friendliest staff.

MIACOMET POND

Miacomet Pond is one of Nantucket's grandest and most exquisite features. Either walking or driving to Miacomet Beach, this grand pond is hard to miss. The beautiful scenery of ferns and trees gives it a feeling of shelter, almost like it's hiding. The pond leads right up to Miacomet Beach. Birds can be seen swimming and feeding on the surface of the water. Miacomet Pond is a wonderful destination for anybody to see, and is a great asset to Nantucket's natural beauty.
