

Landmarks OF NANTUCKET!

Alaina Paterson

My name is Alaina Paterson and I was born at the Nantucket Cottage Hospital in 1994. I have one brother and two loving parents. I have three passports because my parents are from Scotland and New Zealand. For hobbies, I ice-skate at the Nantucket ice-skating rink and play piano. I am a member of the Island Waves synchronized skating team. This winter we competed in three synchronized skating competitions. When I was little, my mom used to take me to the places I took pictures of for this project, and that is why I chose them as places on Nantucket that I would not like to see disappear.

REFLECTION

When I look at this picture I see why I really love Squam Swamp. This picture shows one of the many small ponds in the woods with a tree reflecting on the water. The quietness of this picture is why I love it.

LOOK DOWN

In this picture you see one of the many trails surrounded by branches welcoming you into this secret and wonderful place.

SNAPPING TURTLE POND

Looking at the Snapping Turtle Pond in this picture, I see the docks where all the tourists feed the turtles. Behind that I see the brown cattails, surrounding brown murky water that hides the weird turtles.

LILY POND TREES

The trees in this picture show the grooves and bonds that many trees take the form of. They are perfect to climb on and have beautiful leaves in the summer and spring.
